U.S. Coastal Service, M-95 New York Harbor Container and Trailer-on-Barge Service: $308,000 grant awarded in 2020 for planning, permitting, and engineering studies required to start operation in the New York City Region. Particularly the records showing whether MARAD consulted on impacts to Atlantic and shortnose sturgeon from the grant, which was intended to expand the container-on-barge service in the NY area. These species are known to be adversely affected by ship strikes; 2. Port of Morrow, M-84 Barge Service Expansion: $3,200,000 was awarded in 2020 to support procurement of a container on barge service to expand from the Port of Morrow, OR, to Vancouver, WA. These barges go through critical habitat for steelhead, chinook salmon, chum salmon and bull trout, which can be adversely affected by wake stranding caused by large vessel traffic; 3. America's Central Port District, M-35/M-55 Container on Barge Service: $1,268,800 was awarded in 2020 to purchase material handling equipment and security equipment for container on barge movement to the St. Louis area. 21-0083-FOIA	Sayler, Emily	Compass Lesecon	7/22/2021	7/22/2021	Data regarding North American Cruises. It appears that there is a report available on the Maritime Administration website which has very useful information regarding vessels, capacity, traffic, and occupancy. The most recent data available online is from 2011, and I was hoping to find more recent data for the purpose of a transportation industry analysis. Specifically, I am seeking data on passenger levels for 2012-2019.	8/13/2021	Closed
